When fresh Meat, Bread, or Vegetables, supplied to Her Majesty's ships, shall be rejected by the Surveying Officers on board, the Contractor shall take back any or all of the rejected articles, and supply fresh ones in their place, otherwise they will be purchased at the Contractor's expense.
15. It shall be in the power of either party to limit the duration of the Contract, by giving in writing notice of three calendar months to the opposite party, and to end the contract at the expiration of that period, it being understood that such a notice can be given only from the first day of a month, and within the period for which the Contract is made, or agreed to be made; and not later than the 1st of August.
16. [ADVERTISEMENT.]

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—The passengers of the new ship Royal Stuart, Captain R. H. Goble, are desirous of availing of your kindness to give circulation to a public expression of their sentiments and feelings in regard to that ship, her commander, and officers, in the hope that while they are only doing an act of justice towards the ship they may at the same time afford the opportunity of expressing their sentiments in regard to the latter.

If the point were immaterial as to the mere manner of wording a compliment, the case might be easily disposed of, by our saying that the ship, captain, and officers were worthy of each other; for, a more beautiful model of a ship there could not well be, and her sailing qualities are equal to those of the very fastest first-class ships—as exemplified in the voyage. In short, there cannot be a more beautiful sea boat than the Royal Stuart; or a ship in which the accommodations for passengers are more strenuously attended to.

Of Captain Goble, whether viewed in the light of a commander, or a gentleman, in every sense of the word, we are alike without a difficulty in expressing our sentiments. His department is dignified, urbane, and gentlemanly, and he is kind, considerate, and attentive to young children, and to those who are indisposed. He also possesses great firmness, combined with kindness in his manner of meeting emergencies connected with his crew; whilst the zeal, energy, coolness, and judgment he uniformly displays in the general management and sailing of the ship, all tend to inspire confidence and a feeling of security in the minds of his passengers. Altogether, his demeanour is becoming that of an able and accomplished officer, and a thorough gentleman. Though we have other means of testifying our sense of obligation and of admiration of the conduct of Captain Goble, (and which we have not forgotten to avail of), yet we deem it alike just towards him and the general feeling of estimation in which he is held at this important and splendid port, to avail of this public manner of acknowledging his merits, and of testifying our sense of his virtues.

Of the officers of the Royal Stuart, generally, we have sincere pleasure in speaking in the most favourable terms; but in regard to the sworn officers more especially, it is impossible to bear too favourable testimony. Three more indefatigable, intelligent, and able officers are very rarely, if ever, to be met with in one and the same ship; whilst their uniform kindness and attention to the comforts of the passengers, were beyond all praise.

"Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I."

[FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.]

London, 12th September, 1851.

THIS morning's Times again announces a call for tenders for the carrying of the mails between England and Australia in steam vessels. Had Her Majesty's Government come forward with some great, bold, and efficient scheme of steam communication, one in every way worthy of the actual and growing importance of our relations between the two countries, I should have been surprised. They have given us a project absurdly deficient in every respect, and all that we can say is, that it is just as we might have expected. They have taken, as I believe, the worst route, as regards speed of communication, and then they determined to minimise the frequency of communication. This is the Government project—the result of several years' ministerial deliberation, of a long continued and, on the whole, powerful agitation of the subject in this country, and of a very lengthened and elaborate parliamentary investigation. But the result is a consistent one. The whole course of the Government on this question has been evasive and shuffling. It has been abundantly clear that while the usual phrases of approval have been applied to the abstract scheme, ministers have been wholly indifferent, if not abs lutely opposed to the practical realization of it. "The benefits of steam intercourse are too obvious to require a word to be said about them," has been the constant remark of Lord John Russell, Lord Grey, Lord Broughton, Sir Francis Baring, and Sir Charles Wood; yet their conjoint ingenuity seems to have been exercised in raising objections to every specific project by which so much of admitted good was to be obtained. I feel myself unavoidably impelled to the opinion that in reality Government never liked the idea of steam communication, and that this feeling has been at the bottom of all their proceedings.

The invitation for tenders calls for two proposals one for the transit of the mails in steamers, calling at King George's Sound, Adelaide, and Port Phillip, on their route to Sydney; a second in steamers, calling on their route only, at Port Phillip, leaving the Adelaide and Western Australian service to be conducted by branch steamers. The line may be either a continuation of the exis'ing Cape line, or may be an independent line from England. The Government magnanimously require that the speed shall not be less than eight and a half kn t an hour; and the mails are to be carried six times a year!

The Times appropriately remarks, that the subject of steam communication with your colonies has only retrogressed since its first agitation, considering the terms of the present proposal of Government; and it forcibly contrasts the conduct of British Ministers with that of the American Government, who so speedily and efficiently established steam intercourse with the new state of California. But it is more than ever clear that the genius of Downing-street and Whitehall is anti-colonial. The British people are colonisers; but its Government, from the personal and political associations of the class of men who form its principal members, knows little, and cares less, about colonial interests.

We are continuing to feel very anxious for farther advices from Sydney on the subject of the gold discoveries, and this topic has thrown into obscurity every other connected with your quarter. The anti-convict agitation, important as that subject is, could command but little attention at this particular period of the year, even did it stand alone as the Australian question of the day. But now it may be said to be wholly obscured by the absorbing interest attaching to this new subject, which leads every man in any way connected with the colonies to indulge in speculations as to the whole range of results, moral and material, which the alleged discoveries may have on the social system of Australia.

In the Act of the past session which was passed for the amendment of the law of evidence, there are some provisions which are of importance to the colonies. By the seventh section it is enacted that all judgments, decrees, orders, and other judicial proceedings of any court of justice in any British colony, and all affidavits, pleadings, and other legal documents, filed or deposited in any such court, may be proved in any court in this country either by examined copies, or by copies authenticated in manner as directed by the Act. If the document sought to be proved be a judgment, decree, order, or other judicial proceeding, or an affidavit, pleading, or other legal document, the authenticated copy to be admissible in evidence must purport to be sealed with the seal of the colonial court, or, in the event of the court having no seal, to be signed by the judge, or one of the judges, of the court; and such authenticated copies will be admitted in evidence in every case in which the original document could have been received in evidence, without any proof of the seal or of the signature, or of the judicial character of the person appearing to have made such signature. The same provisions are extended to the case of foreign courts as well. You are perhaps aware, that the most important feature of this Act is the admission of parties to a suit as witnesses, a concession only too tardily given to the dedemands of common se se. The Act comes into operation on the first day of November next, and I understand its working is looked forward to with no little interest by the legal profession.

September 13.

An indirect channel has brought us Sydney intelligence to the early part of June, which goes far to confirm the accounts of a prolific "gold region" having been discovered in your colony. The notices in the journals of the day will show you some little of its effect on our moneyed and mercantile community.

I may mention as some of the gossip connected with this subject, that the original information received in the earlier part of the month was said to be purchased by Mr. Dunbar, the great ship owner, of the captain of the vessel by which the tidings reached this country; but that the mate of the vessel had also got possession of the secret, and disposed of it for no inconsiderable sum to the Times newspaper.

The June intelligence reached us by the Pernambuco steamer—a Sydney vessel, the Thomas Arbuthnot, having touched at that port. Unfortunately, the steam packet did not bring the Thomas Arbuthnot's mail; indeed, I presume the captain would not have given up possession of it, so that it must now be two or three weeks before it arrives. These things could not have been provided for in the past, but for the future some Post Office regulation should exist, under which, when long voyage sailing ships meet homeward bound steam packets, a transference of the mails should be authorised, if not required.

Ham, Coleshill, September 22nd, 1851.

SIR,—I beg to acknowledge your duplicate letter by the Duchess of Northumberland, dated Sydney, May 12th, and to say that I am deeply sensible of the honour done me by the Sydney Local Council of the Australasian Anti-Convict League.

So far as I know of the objects and proceedings of that League they are such as I shall exert all my energies in warmly seconding; and I feel no doubt when the further papers you promise me come, and put me in possession of the actual terms of association, I shall find nothing to impede my undertaking in Parliament to be one of its spokesmen as an actual member of its body.

You are certainly right in having your plans at once prepared, and your movements ready to act in the earliest combinations preparing for the next session of the Imperial Parliament.

I cannot but think this great discovery of gold will have a powerful influence in furthering your objects indirectly.

I am, your obedient servant,
C. B. ADDERLEY.

THE GOLD QUESTION.

WE have been favoured by Mr. Thomas Banister with the following communication, recently addressed by him to the Lieutenant-Governor of Victoria on the Gold Question.

130, Queen-street, Melbourne,
29th December, 1851.

SIR,—Being but a passing stranger in Port Phillip, your Excellency may think it strange that I should take any interest in the subject matter of the memorandum which I have the honour to enclose. When, however, I mention that the currency question is one I have for many years taken an interest in (and this gold is essentially a currency question), and that I was also connected with those gentlemen who first established themselves here in 1835, I hope to be pardoned for submitting this paper on the gold question for your consideration. I may add that I lay it before you at the wish expressed by many gold diggers.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your very obedient servant,
THOMAS BANISTER.

To the Lieutenant-Governor of Victoria.

(Enclosure.)

Memorandum on the Gold Question, by Thomas Banister, of the Inner Temple.

1. An annual license shall be issued by the Government, which license to dig for gold should be good for nine months, and for which license the sum of £1 alone should be paid.

2. If any man should dig for gold any portion of the remaining three months, necessary to secure the harvest and wool, he should be charged for each month £12 for the permission to dig.

3. The Government should be the purchaser of the gold, for which it should give three sovereigns, or three pieces of gold, each of the value of a sovereign, or six pieces of the value of a half-sovereign each, or twelve pieces of the value of a quarter-sovereign each; and some five sovereign pieces might be issued. It is true that the right to coin is in the Crown, but to meet the necessity of the case, in the absence of any precedent, you should go back to first principles.

4. The tokens or pieces of gold to be a legal tender, and received by the Government in discharge of taxes, and in all transactions in the colony until the question is finally adjusted.

5. Private persons buying gold, to be liable to seizure, unless they pay ten per cent. on the amount to Government.

Such a system would benefit not only the gold diggers, but every class in the community, as it would, by adding to the circulating medium, benefit all and every class, and so help industry in all its various ramifications, whether in town or country: and whereas the present system will not only be disadvantageous to the gold diggers, but it must injure all interests, and it places the Government, which can alone have the interest of the country at heart, in a wrong position with the people; and any system would be prejudicial to the community which did not add to the circulating medium—for example, an export duty would do mischief.

To the gold diggers my system would be advantageous, because they would get fair value for their gold, whereas now some of these hard-working men have been compelled in their necessity to sell their gold for £2 10s., and many for £2 17s. an ounce, and they will probably have to submit to much less prices.

To the merchant, and those engaged in trade and agricultural pursuits, it would be advantageous, because their interests would be attended to, and they would be able, therefore, to meet the increased demands upon their purses for labour. The present system of decreasing or not adding to the circulating medium, must injure all those numerous classes not engaged in successful digging, or immediately connected with the diggers.

The present crisis will require the exercise of great good sense and forbearance on the part of the people under any circumstances.

Those suggestions are thrown out in good faith, and it is hoped a calm consideration will convince British men of the great benefits to the community by their adoption.

British subjects alone to possess the privilege of digging under such regulations.

THOMAS BANISTER.

 A Sale of Overtime Goods, on account of H.M. Customs, will take place this morning, at the various Bonded Warehouses, commencing at Pollard's, at 10 o'clock.

MEETING OF MAGISTRATES.—The Mayor has issued circulars convening a meeting to be held to-morrow, at the Police Office, George and York streets, "for the purpose of taking into consideration the practice at present existing at the Water Police Office of discharging seamen who have been apprehended after their ships have left this port, and of allowing them to employ themselves."

THE MEROO GOLD FIELD.—The following is an extract from a letter written by Mr. William Blackman, of Mudgee, to a mercantile house in Sydney:—"A new digging was discovered on Friday last ju t below a purchase of land made by H. Lewis, from the Crown. £2000 worth of gold was taken from it in about seventeen hours; three or four hundred people are now there, and are digging out lumps weighing from 5½ lbs. to two pennyweights; there is nothing smaller than this weight. I think this will be found the richest gold field that has yet been discovered. The late rains had washed the dust from the gold on its face, and it was thus discovered."

STREET ROBBERY.—John Richardson, residing in Clarence-street, has reported to the police that a little after midnight of Friday he had occasion to go between the George-street market sheds, where he was suddenly seized hold of by two men, who after placing him in such a position that resistance was impossible, and almost choking him to prevent his shouting, searched his pockets, took thence £21 in notes, with which they made off.—About two o'clock on Saturday morning the police found a man named Harris, by trade a watchmaker, lying in an unfinished house in George-street, bleeding profusely from the nose, and in a state of exhaustion. Perceiving that he had received some violent treatment, they removed him to the Infirmary. On coming to himself he reported that he was drinking at Isaac Moore's public house, Lower George-street, which place he left about twelve o'clock, and shortly afterwards was attacked in George-street, whether by more than one man he was unable to say, and after receiving a violent blow on the forehead, was knocked senseless. How long he lay he could not tell, but on coming to himself found he had been robbed of four watches, worth about £8, and 20s. in money. He made the best of his way to the unfinished house, where he was found by the police. Inquiry, we learn, has been made at Moore's, but he is not known to have been there as described.

GOLD RECEIVED BY SATURDAY'S MAILS.—From Braidwood, 224 ounces; from Bathurst, 7 ounces. Total, 231 ounces.

THE HANGING ROCK DIGGINGS.—Additional information has been received respecting these diggings, of the most encouraging character. Messrs. D. Cohen and Co. received on Wednesday evening a letter from Mr. L. W. Levy, of Tamworth, dated Tamworth, February 1, stating his full confidence that it will prove a large gold field. Mr. Levy, after mentioning particulars of the prospecting visits of gentlemen who have been to the Hanging Rock, and the results in gold obtained, proceeds thus: "Depend on what I say, it will be a large gold field, and very easy to be got (on the surface), and if I had any person here, I would go up myself and see it, as many would take my word, and at the beginning it wants a few to go. I can say with confidence that more than forty men are there already * * This place will be quite equal, if not better, than the Turon, as the gold is so easily found, just on the surface.—Maitland Mercury.

LIBERAL DONATION.—It will be remembered that a few weeks since a man named Macnamara, who was charged with murder, was apprehended in Sydney, principally through the exertions of Mr. W. T. Pinhey, chemist, Parramatta-street. For his services on that occasion, the Government awarded Mr. Pinhey £25, which Mr. P (who resided several years at Maitland), has very handsomely presented to the Maitland Hospital.

COMMITTAL.—Elizabeth Glover was on Saturday committed to take her trial for stealing sundry articles of wearing apparel, the property of Mrs. Manning, by whom she had been engaged as nurs offered £4 for the first ounce of gold that should be proved to have been found in the immediate vicinity of Bathurst.

THE TUITION.—The accounts from this gold field are very disheartening, and the labour of many in preparing to work their bed claims has been thrown away at a great sacrifice of time, money, labour, and health. Many are reduced to want; and until the river falls, which will not be for four or five weeks, employment cannot be readily obtained, and we fear the consequences. Dysentery is still very prevalent, and there has been a funeral every day for the last fortnight. The Rev. Mr. Palmer is indefatigable in his exertions, administering not only to the spiritual but also to the temporal wants of the people. His dwelling, as we are informed, consists of two very small slab-built apartments; yet he has given up one of them to the occupation of a poor man in the last stage of dysentery, and he is unwearied in his visits to the sick and afflicted.

OUTWITTING A SHARPER.—A few days ago, a jolly Boniface of this town was asked at the Times by a decent-looking man, if he would give him a seat in his gig to Bathurst, the quarter aiding that he put up at some House a short time and spent a good deal of money. I'm going up to sell my gold and shall stay at your inn again. I know you are taking in a good sum of money, and we'll be a protection to each other." Our host, as the saying is, at once "dropped down" to his friend's intentions, but agreed off hand to his proposal, adding that he could not start till next day. He was off, however, in two hours in his gig alone, and got safe to Bathurst, and considers he had a narrow escape from being robbed, and perhaps murdered.

EMIGRANTS WANTED.—As the most of Earl Grey's pets have got married, and the remainder are not favourite, as servants, generally speaking, an excellent opening exists for servants of all sorts and wages are very high. For single women as house servants, from five to six shillings a-week is readily given, and they are much wanted; and if the immigrants by the Joseph Somes are willing to work for good remuneration, they will get plenty of employment, with good pay, every comfort, and a hearty welcome.

WOLLONGONG.

FEBRUARY 6.—SMALL DEBTS COURT.—The Monthly Court of Petty Sessions for the recovery of small debts was held on Monday last, before Messrs. Cole, Smith, Meares, and Street, with a list of eleven cases for adjudication, which were disposed of in due time after the usual manner of such causes. There was only one case on the police sheet, under the Master and Servants' Act, which was settled by allowing the servant to return to service.

INQUEST.—A man named Cross, lately in the employment of Mr. Henry Osborne, Wran, as shepherd, died suddenly at Mr. John Osborne's public-house, on Sunday. An inquest was held on the body on Monday, before Mr. Alick Osborne, M.C., Coroner, and a jury of the inhabitants, when a verdict of "Died by the visitation of God" was returned.

AGRICULTURAL AND HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Society's annual exhibition took place in the Market-square on Wednesday, that is, the Agricultural and Horticultural departments. The live stock were exhibited in the grounds adjacent, on Mr. Evans' premises: there was a tolerable muster of the country people present, and we are happy to say that the affair passed off in a very orderly and peaceable manner.

THE LICENSING LAWS.—Clause 8, "And be it enacted that in case any person holding a publican's general license, or a confectioner's license, shall refrain from any two or more Justices of the Peace assembled in Petty Sessions, in the city, town, or police district in which any lawful or accustomed fair or other public general amusement, lawfully authorised, shall take place, an authority in the form hereunto annexed marked E., then and in every such case the privileges of the license of any such person as aforesaid, shall respectively be extended to the fair or other place of amusement, &c." Any person who has visited Wollongong will have observed on passing the Post Office from the steamer wharf, a small enclosed square plot of ground, we believe about two acres. When the township was originally laid out in 1836, under the administration of Sir Richard Bourke, the plot of ground referred to was reserved for a market, and therefore it has since been called "the Market-square;" on opposite angles of this square there are public houses, with only the width of a street intervening; altogether in Wollongong there are seven public houses. The public may judge then, whether there was a necessity for increasing the number of grog shops, or whether it was necessary that a publican residing eight miles from Wollongong should have the privileges of his license extended to the Market-square, on Wednesday last, the day of the Agricultural and Horticultural Society's Exhibition, yet so it was. Two of our magistrates, under colour of the 8th clause of the Publican's Licensing Bill above quoted, gave the permission under their hands and seals. Where the application was made, or where the signatures to the document were attached, no body knows, for it does not appear; and indeed we are assured that no formal application was made to the magistrates in Petty Sessions, nor was the document signed by the magistrates in Petty Sessions, as the law directs: neither did the Clerk of the Bench, or the Chief Constable, know anything of the matter, until the latter officer, upon demanding the publican's authority for selling, was shown a document bearing the signatures of C. T. Smith and William Sheaffe, J.P.'s.

WILLIAM JOHN HENRY.—In the Bathurst Free Press of Wednesday week, there appears a report of the exploits of the individual whose name figures at the head of this paragraph, as being the bushranger who about three years since shot at Major Bowler on the Wiseman's Road, for which he was convicted and sentenced to five years' servitude, and after he had served three years at Cockatoo, was let out with a ticket-of-leave, when he soon afterwards took to his old game, robbery, and attempted to murder his master, Mr. Young, and his son, near Bathurst, for the commission of which crime he now awaits trial in Bathurst Gaol. As there appears a short hiatus in the history of this youth (for he is but a youth) as given by the Bathurst journal, we beg leave to supply it, for it so happened that the same identical William John Henry had his ticket granted for Wollongong; that having a smart appearance, and in ignorance of his being a Cockatoo bird, he was taken into the employment of an innkeeper here, where he behaved himself tolerably well for a week, then robbed a fellow-servant of a pound note, and absconded.

On October the 9th, the German Catholic Association held its last meeting at Mayne. The room was densely filled. One of the gas lights blazed up suddenly, and a cry of "fire" was raised. Two young ladies, aged 16, were thrown down and smothered, and three others seriously wounded, in rushing to the door, which was very narrow. Happily the persons in the body of the room did not take alarm, otherwise the results would have been still more dreadful.

THE ARCTIC REGIONS.—Sir James Ross relates some remarkable incidents connected with his recent voyage to the Arctic regions. A bear walked into Captain Ross' party, and surveyed them with cool inquisitiveness; guns were levelled, and the bear was wounded in the head; he scratched his ear, and walked off with an air of superior contempt. Another bear was seen to slide on his haunches down a cliff of seven hundred feet high, steadying himself with his fore-paws, most "judgmatically," as the sailors said.

PUNCTUALITY.—A committee of eight gentlemen had appointed to meet at twelve o'clock. Seven of them were punctual; but the eighth came bustling in with apologies for being a quarter of an hour behind the time. "the time," said he, "passed away without my being aware of it. I had no idea of its being so late," &c. A Quaker present said, "Friend, I am not sure we should admit thy apology. It were a matter of regret that thou shouldst have wasted thine own quarter of an hour; but there are seven besides thyself, whose time thou hast also consumed, amounting in the whole to two hours, and one-eighth of it only was thine own property."

DEATH OF THE DUCHESS D'ANGOULEME.—A letter from Frohsdorff states, that on the 15th October, the Duchess d'Angouleme was attacked by severe illness, but on the 16th there was a favourable change, and her physicians hoped for her recovery. Subsequent accounts, however, inform us that on the 17th unfavourable symptoms again declared themselves, and on the 19th, at 11 o'clock in the morning, her Royal Highness expired. The deceased princess was in her seventy-third year, having been born on the 19th December, 1778. The Count de Chambord did not quit his aunt during the whole of her short but severe illness, which is stated to have arisen from suddenly taking cold.
